

Communication in Ireland

CLEMSON COMMUNICATION
Study Abroad

Overview

Clemson University in Ireland is a summer abroad program that focuses on the intersection of Communication and General Education. The courses offered focus specifically on several of Clemson's General Education requirements. Depending on your major and the credits you have left to fulfill, you could receive CCA, Non-Lit Humanities, Oral Communication or STS credit while studying in Dublin. Students will have the chance to improve their communication skills, explore Irish culture, and make memories that will last a lifetime! While in Dublin, students will learn about Irish history, conflict, and customs with excursions to Guinness Storehouse, the General Post Office, Riverdance, Glendalough, and Belfast in Northern Ireland.

Students must have a 2.5 GPA, letter of intent, and faculty recommendation upon applying.
